Art Unit: 2823

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, it is questioned what is recited through use of "prevents scratching". It appears that the literal meaning is not intended and instead some degree of scratch resistance is intended. If a particular hardness or degree of scratch resistance is intended it must be clearly recited. The term "high reflectivity" in claim 1, line 7, is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "high" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. If applicant intends a particular reflectivity it must be clearly recited. In claim 2, it appears that "an" before "oxide material..." should be deleted. The term "thin" in claim 2, last line, is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "thin" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. If applicant intends a particular thickness it must be clearly recited.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
